Volume 8, Issue 4

Dear readers,

after an exciting selection period, we are happy to introduce you to our Demetrios Award winners this year. All selected entries can be found in our current issue of the Josha Journal. Also, all other submitted works. Many thanks to all applicants and the team around Roland Mertelsmann for the contributions and the selection of the award winners.

The prize money comes from the International Academy of Sciences, Humanities and Arts (IASHA e.V) and is complemented by the Roland Mertelsmann BioThera Foundation. This year’s winners are:

Doctoral thesis:
Gustavo Iván Rosero Yánez for his work entitled: “Desarrollo de microdispositivos para Análisis de Células y Biomoléculas - Microdevice Development for Analysis of Cells and Biomolecules”.

Master's thesis:
Avani Sapre for his work entitled: “Three - Dimensional Culture For Continuous Long Term Live Cell Imaging”.

Bachelor thesis:
Jochen Wahl for his work entitled “Grundfrequenz und harmonische Oberschwingung: die Obertonreihe - musikalische Physik im fächerübergreifenden Unterricht - The Overtone Series - Musical Physics in Interdisciplinary Teaching”.

We would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the award winners once again and wish them all the best for their future young professional careers!

Another Corona year is drawing to a close. We wish all readers of the Josha Journal good health and we are looking forward to more exciting articles in 2022.

Now we hope you enjoy reading the journal.
